

Bankruptcy Court's Pro Bono Program in Contested Matters

If you are indigent and need legal representation to pursue or defend against a proceeding within a bankruptcy case, you may be eligible for free representation upon application to the Court. This program is available to both debtors and non-debtor parties. Contact the Clerk's Office at 202-354-3280 or visit the Court's website at www.dcb.uscourts.gov for the form used to request free representation.

Examples of proceedings to which this program applies:

- ◆ an adversary proceeding brought against the debtor to determine dischargeability of a particular debt
- ◆ an adversary proceeding to deny the debtor a discharge or to revoke a discharge
- ◆ an adversary proceeding to recover a judgment against an individual, such as a complaint for receiving property from the debtor for inadequate consideration or for receiving payment of a debt that gave the creditor preferential treatment in comparison to other creditors
- ◆ a motion by the debtor to avoid a lien that impairs the debtors' exemptions
- ◆ an objection to the debtor's objections
- ◆ a motion to hold a creditor in contempt for violating the automatic stay, co-debtor stay or discharge injunction
- ◆ an adversary proceeding to enjoin someone from undertaking certain acts in the future

This program does not include pursuing or defending against a motion for relief from the automatic stay

DISCLAIMER

Please Read Carefully

This pamphlet is strictly for assistance only. The Clerk's Office cannot advise or recommend who you should or should not employ and/or show preference to any particular institution, office, or law firm. You can review court files at the Clerk's Office in order to see how an attorney has handled other bankruptcy cases or the fees an attorney has charged in prior cases. Additionally, you're free to attend any public hearing that the court conducts in order to observe attorneys and/or court proceedings. The hearing schedule can be found online or at the Clerk's Office.

LEGAL ADVICE

Only an attorney is authorized to give you legal advice regarding a bankruptcy case or proceeding. The Clerk's Office and the chambers staff of the court's judges cannot give you legal advice.

For example, they cannot...

- Help you complete forms
- Explain the meaning of a rule/statute
- Give interpretations of case law

DOCUMENT PREPARERS

"Bankruptcy Petition Preparers" or "Document Preparers" are not authorized to give debtors or other parties legal advice. A petition preparer's role is strictly limited to a typing service. For a minimal fee, a petition preparer will merely fill in the required forms using information a debtor provides without making suggestions about what papers are legally appropriate or what information is legally appropriate to include on the papers.

The Bankruptcy Assistance Center (BAC)

The Bankruptcy Assistance Center (BAC) is a program that provides competent bankruptcy legal advice if you have no attorney. A volunteer panel of attorneys will be available to answer your questions, free of charge, on the first and third Friday of each month on a first come, first served basis from 10:00 AM to 1:00 PM in Room 1207 of the E. Barrett Prettyman United States Courthouse. If it is determined that further legal aid is required, then additional resources for obtaining counsel will be provided.

Finding An Attorney

Visit the D.C. Bar website at www.dcbbar.org for information on how to find and work with an attorney. You may also contact the Lawyer Referral Service at (202) 296-7845.
